Now, without the funding for a paid field-worker, we are setting up a network of volunteer working groups to sustain this work: Planning monitoring, Communication, Fundraising, and Resident Engagement. This will ensure that local residents continue to be provided with EXCELLENT advice on how to play their part in the planning process; BRF support will enable small local groups to generate the DETERMINATION and resilience to persevere in the often-daunting world of planning applications; and local people working together, sharing problems, ideas and solutions, will create FRIENDSHIP and community cohesion.
