Reprint of Rotherhithe Map	Highlighting specific sites of interest has often led to a renewal of attention and refurbishment for greater enjoyment and benefit e.g. the drinking trough in Surrey Quays Rd. Knowing where you are is part of being safe and Rotherhithe is on the whole poorly signed. The map is of great help in making sure that particularly newcomers to the area are aware of their surroundings.	169775	Rotherhithe, Livesey & Surrey Docks

Introducing Companion Groups	A. Rough sleepers, homeless people and other vulnerable people will improve their well being, social networks and independence (measured using The Outcomes Star). Also, formerly homeless people visiting Companions Groups will be less likely to return to life on the streets (return rate will be compared with figures from the CHAIN database). B. By creating small scale communities of mutual support Companions Groups will remove some of the barriers to inclusion in wider society faced by homeless and newly housed people. Social inclusion will also be enhanced through the relationships built up within the groups. C. Housing Justice already works alongside and in partnership with the Faith Groups Coordination Project based at The Passage. One of the key roles of the Companions Groups will be to signpost people to statutorily funded services and to provide advocacy support to clients and potential clients.	173453	Boroughwide

Street lights arent just for Christmas!	There are 59 mature trees on Tower Bridge Road, from the Bricklayers Arms roundabout to Tower Bridge itself. As tree lighting depends on electricity supplied by lamp posts, the number of trees which can be used becomes limited due to a smaller number of lamp posts. In addition, certain trees which are very close to obstacles such as bus stops and traffic lights cannot be considered. Furthermore, trees which are more than a certain distance from a power supply cannot be used. Certain areas of Tower bridge Road are already quite well lit and do not require further lighting, therefore the lights will be strategically installed into trees where the impact will be significant. From our preliminary findings, a total of 10 trees have been decided on; 7 of which will occupy the area between the Abbey Street junction and Bricklayers Arms roundabout. The remaining 3 will be positioned between the Druid Street Junction and Abbey Street. This is subject to approval by TFL, who we have been in contact with.	173567	Grange
