Participants can be on the project for up to 12 weeks and there will be two main sessions. Participants will achieve digital skills that will improve their awareness of online support on various areas including using health online websites. The impact will make a difference for disaffected people who due to lack of digital skills and not benefiting from the opportunities that exist online. By improving on their health or using it to access benefits or for employment/training will lead a more positive image of themselves in the society.
414416/BBW-CA/15/10	Millwall Community Trust (MCT)	Multi-Sports Central	We will be using sport as a tool to support and encourage young Southwark residents to enjoy being more physically, socially active and learning in their community. We're purposely targeting young people, so that they can all play a role within the development and success of a facility which lies within the centre of their community and more importantly that they benefit on a more physical and social interactive outcome. We will also provide education and advice on employment and training pathways and workshops on gangs, knife and gun crime, conflict management and making the right decisions. MCT have a large number of staff, volunteers and coaches in place who have a vast amount of knowledge and expertise with regards developing programmes that are required to meet tight and stringent timeframes. Were more than confident that we can have these sessions in place and established within advance of the starting date. The strong links that MCT have established in the 30 years that they've been in Southwark is also another major reason why were ideally placed to achieve our targets and aims and objectives. We want to use this programme to highlight that sport and physical activity can play a major role in a young person's life on a physical, social and life -long learning outcome.	£8,550

			Programmes are built on hands-on and experiential learning – stimulating engagement and learning through doing. On our history trails, this might mean primary school students learning about the Reformation by acting out – in costume – the work of monks in the Priory of St Mary Overie or on our maths trail using the architecture of the Cathedral itself to try new calculations and measurements. On our RE trails it might mean using objects, music, pictures and textiles to explore a range of concepts – laying a table for the Eucharist, lighting candles and breaking bread. Across the curriculum, our programmes help to consolidate children's learning and bring subjects alive.
