1. Council assembly believes that crime and the fear of crime are among our residents’ main concerns and notes the council’s fairer future promise to crack down on anti-social behaviour and implement a violent crime strategy.
2. Council assembly notes the progress being made against the 5 priorities in the violent crime strategy including:

 - 22% reduction in knives used to injure
 - 19% reduction in youth violence
 - 10% reduction in domestic abuse.
3. Council assembly notes that despite savings to Southwark’s anti-social behaviour unit, the number of anti-social behaviour cases that have been managed by Southwark antisocial behaviour unit (SASBU and housing officers over the last three years has actually increased by 40%; the number of acceptable behaviour contracts issued increased by 19% on last year.
4. Council assembly welcomes the establishment of the Southwark anti-violence unit (SAVU), a multiagency team working together to support individuals and families affected by gang and serious youth violence. It welcomes the fact that, the first 10 months evaluation highlights that following engagement with SAVU, 45% of SAVU clients have not come to police notice, compared with the 12 months prior to their involvement in the scheme when 100% had come to notice. Council assembly further notes the favourable review of this work by the Home Office in October 2012, in which the council was praised by the review team for its 'political leaders recognising and prioritising ending gang and youth violence work and sending out a very strong signal that this is a priority for the borough and will be resourced and supported'.
5. Council assembly also welcomes the announcement in last month’s budget of £1.4m to upgrade outdated camera systems on Southwark’s housing estates as well as 30 new redeployable cameras and an upgraded control room. It notes that CCTV has supported the police in making around 900 arrests between April and March of 2012/13.
6. Council assembly regrets the government’s decision to cut the Met’s budget by 20% and the impact this has had on police officer numbers in the borough and on closures to police stations in Rotherhithe and East Dulwich. It welcomes the council's decision to identify £750,000 for community safety initiatives including alternative police front counters.

7. Council assembly asks the cabinet to develop plans to:

- Work collaboratively with customs and excise, police and neighboring boroughs to tackle the drugs trade
- Work with communities and registered social landlords to develop new approaches to resolve conflicts within communities
- Help communities gain confidence to tackle anti-social behaviour in their midst
- Continue the excellent work of SAVU despite government cuts
- Develop further the work with our partners to reduce re-offending

This will most likely be as part of the regeneration of the Aylesbury estate where Ellison House is currently located.
- Council assembly thanks residents and local businesses for their involvement in discussions and notes the strength of local feeling regarding the need for regeneration of the Old Kent Road.
